

Report on the Roles, Responsibilities, Goals, and Objectives of the Education Committee

Middle East Society for Sexual Medicine (MESSM)

Introduction

The Education Committee of the Middle East Society for Sexual Medicine (MESSM) is responsible for planning, coordinating, and overseeing all educational activities organized or endorsed by the Society. The Committee ensures the delivery of high-quality, structured, and evidence-based educational programs in the field of sexual medicine, supporting continuous professional development for healthcare professionals across the Middle East. The Committee also oversees affiliated educational subcommittees, including the Multidisciplinary Subcommittee, to promote integrated and collaborative learning approaches.

Roles of the Education Committee

The Education Committee serves as the primary body responsible for educational planning and academic coordination within MESSM. Its key roles include:

- Providing strategic oversight for MESSM's educational initiatives throughout the year.
 - Ensuring consistency, quality, and educational value across all MESSM activities.
 - Aligning educational programs with the Society's mission and regional educational needs.
 - Supporting lifelong learning and professional development in sexual medicine.
 - Supervising affiliated educational subcommittees to ensure alignment with MESSM's educational strategy.

Responsibilities of the Education Committee

3.1 Annual Educational Planning

- Preparing and maintaining a comprehensive annual educational calendar covering all MESSM events, including webinars, workshops, training courses, and congress-related activities.
- Coordinating scheduling to ensure appropriate distribution of educational activities throughout the year and avoid program overlap.
- Collaborating with relevant committees to align educational activities with MESSM's strategic priorities.

3.2 Scientific Program Preparation and Review

- Preparing, structuring, and reviewing the educational and scientific programs for all MESSM webinars, workshops, and training activities.
- Defining learning objectives, session topics, educational formats, and target audiences.
- Ensuring that all educational content is evidence-based, up to date, and aligned with best practices in sexual medicine.

3.3 Faculty and Content Coordination

- Coordinating with the Scientific and Research Committees to identify and recommend qualified speakers, moderators, and faculty members.
- Reviewing educational materials and presentations to ensure accuracy, relevance, and educational quality.
- Maintaining consistency in academic standards across all educational activities.

3.4 Educational Quality and Standards

- Ensuring that all educational activities adhere to established educational and ethical standards.
- Supporting CME accreditation processes where applicable, in coordination with relevant bodies.
- Maintaining transparency and scientific independence in all educational initiatives.

3.5 Evaluation and Continuous Improvement

- Collecting and reviewing participant feedback to assess the effectiveness and impact of educational activities.
- Identifying gaps and opportunities for improvement in future programs.
- Updating educational strategies and delivery methods based on evaluation outcomes and emerging educational trends.

Multidisciplinary Subcommittee (Affiliated with the Education Committee)

The Multidisciplinary Subcommittee operates under the umbrella of the Education Committee and focuses on promoting integrated, cross-disciplinary education in sexual medicine. Its role is to ensure that educational activities reflect the collaborative nature of sexual healthcare by involving multiple specialties.

Key responsibilities include:

- Developing and supporting educational programs that involve urologists, gynecologists, endocrinologists, psychiatrists, psychologists, family physicians, nurses, and allied healthcare professionals.
- Promoting a holistic and patient-centered approach to sexual medicine education.
- Encouraging collaboration between different medical and health disciplines in educational planning and delivery.
- Supporting joint sessions, panels, and case-based discussions that highlight multidisciplinary management of sexual health conditions.

Goals of the Education Committee

The goals of the Education Committee are to:

- Deliver high-quality, well-structured educational programs in sexual medicine.
- Support continuous professional development for healthcare professionals.
- Ensure consistency and excellence across all MESSM educational activities.
- Promote multidisciplinary learning and collaboration.
- Address current and future educational needs in sexual medicine.

Objectives of the Education Committee

To achieve its goals, the Education Committee aims to:

- Develop a clear and organized annual educational plan for all MESSM activities.
- Ensure the scientific accuracy and educational relevance of all webinars, workshops, and training programs.
- Promote evidence-based practice through structured educational initiatives.
- Enhance learner engagement and educational outcomes.
- Foster multidisciplinary education and collaboration in sexual medicine.

Conclusion

The Education Committee is a vital component of MESSM's educational framework. Through its defined roles, responsibilities, goals, and objectives—together with the support of the Multidisciplinary Subcommittee—the Committee ensures effective planning, delivery, and evaluation of educational activities. Its work supports high educational standards, interdisciplinary collaboration, continuous professional development, and improved clinical practice in sexual medicine across the Middle E
